Organisation Profile	MaritimEA is a grant funded research organisation with expertise in cultural heritage management, maritime archaeology, intangible cultural heritage documentation, ecological surveys, marine protected area management, conservation management, tourism and visitor management, community engagement, and blue economy master-planning. MaritimEA provides the capabilities necessary to undertake studies of maritime environments that require highly specialised technical and professional skills at every stage of research and on-ground investigations in terrestrial and underwater contexts. This includes the specialised skills required for historical research, geospatial analysis, advanced site documentation, in situ preservation, conservation, and interpretation for a diverse set of research and general public audiences. MaritimEA works actively with local fishing communities to promote community driven approaches towards improved environmental, social and economic outcomes.
